For the purposes of the calculation of floor area in relation to bungalow development, only the build-up area, which includes the amount of floor area within a building determined by the external measurements of the building, which includes the thickness of the external walls and half the thickness of dividing or party walls, and the internal shafts, internal yards, shall be considered;

6. For new purely commercial development, or where the development is solely a mix of commercial and social/cultural/educational/ sports, the floor area shall be charged at the rate per square meter as listed in Schedule 1 and the Development Permit Fee and Environment Fee for the site area shall be charged separately at the commercial rate per meter square; any site area being increased in relation to proposed extensions would also be so charged separately;
7. The area used for the placing of tables and chairs in conjunction with commercial development shall also be considered at the same rate of the commercial development to which the tables and chairs are ancillary to;

(5) Change of use into residential is to be calculated using the same rate applied for the construction of the relevant new residential development.

(6) Change of use to use for agriculture, boathouse for registered fisherman, livestock farm building or other garages is to be calculated using the same rates applied for the same respective relevant new development but without including any Infrastructure Services Contribution.
